PRIEST INSANE OR ABNORMAL

Slayer of Girl Was Dismissed By His German Bishop.

HE USED FORGED PAPER

Escaped Punishment by Being Declared of Unsound Mind By Court.

New York, Sept. 15.—Many indications of the insanity or at least abnormality of Hans Schmidt, the confessed murderer of 22-year-old Anna Ammiller, developed today.

Although the young priest in an interview with his attorney, Alphonse J. Koebler, in the Tombs today, emphatically denied that there was any trace of insanity about him, the impression of those who have observed his actions and listened to his conversation since his arrest yesterday morning, is that he is without doubt insane.

It was learned today that the young priest had forged the papers which he presented to the church authorities on his arrival here four years ago from Germany, where he was under a cloud, having been denounced and suspended by his bishop. Vicar General Mooney of the archdiocese of New York, sent a message to the bishop of Mainz, Germany, yesterday afternoon, asking for a report of Schmidt's record in that diocese.

Today the following reply was received from the bishop's secretary: "Schmidt, born Aschoffenburg, priest of diocese of Mainz. Ordained 1907. Ran away from Mainz because of attempted fraud and arrested by police. Declared insane by courts and discharged. Suspended by bishop for acts and for presenting falsified documents regarding studies he pretended to have made. He then left diocese." BENDIX, Secretary.

The first appearance of Schmidt in this country was at Louisville, where upon presentation of the forged papers, he was received in the diocese and assigned as curate to the parish of St. John. He arrived there in August, 1909, and left for Trenton, in March, 1910.

It was during this period that Alma Kellner, a 9-year-old pupil of St. John's school, mysteriously disappeared. The girl disappeared in December, 1909. In May, 1910, her body was found buried in the basement of the school. The school janitor, Joseph Wendling, who had fled, was arrested in San Francisco. He confessed that he had killed the little girl and is now serving a life sentence in the penitentiary at Frankfort, Louisville, where with whom Schmidt was associated at the time, however, says his conduct was beyond reproach during his stay in that city.

His next appearance was in Trenton, where he speedily got into hot water. In December, 1910, he was banished from that diocese by Bishop McFaul. He had performed a marriage without the proper diocesan dispensation.

"More than that," said Bishop McFaul today. "I considered him mentally deranged and an otherwise incapable. I wrote him as follows: 'You are hereby notified that you must leave this diocese at once. It is evident that you are wanting in common sense, and therefore I don't care to have anything more to do with you.'"

After leaving Trenton, Schmidt came to New York and managed to secure an assignment to St. Boniface's church. It was in the parish house there that he met Anna Ammiller, the girl he brutally murdered two years later. His credentials were accepted without question, although he had just been banished from the neighboring diocese of Trenton. To carry on his Jesuit-like existence, he equipped himself with wigs, false whiskers and other forms of disguise. It is believed he had other places of abode than the Bradhurst avenue flat which he rented for the evident purpose of killing Anna Ammiller when her physical condition threatened to become the means of uncovering his double life as priest and murderer.

No murder in the history of New York has aroused so much interest among members of the medical profession as has the slaying of Anna Ammiller, and no murderer who has occupied a cell in the Tombs has so excited the curiosity of alienists and psychologists as has her slayer, the slightly built, blonde-haired, dull-eyed pseudo-priest, Hans Schmidt.

At least a score of well known medical scientists received with disappointment today the news that the district attorney's office had decided that Schmidt might not be interviewed by any except those directly connected with the case. Dr. McGuire, the Tombs physician, who visited Schmidt in the morning, declined to discuss his case in any way.

Several prominent mental specialists who had studied Schmidt's confession, as reported in the morning papers, agreed in pronouncing his symptoms those of a paranoid form of dementia praecox. All said that there could be little doubt that he was a religious maniac liable to do either murder or a kindness without realizing the effect of his acts. They agreed that the man's self-control had been submerged by his most primitive qualities and that intellect had become subservient to instinct.

SAYS WIFE DECEIVED HIM TO GET MONEY

Salt Lake, Sept. 15.—Cruelly consisting of deceptive practice, such as obtaining money to pay the grocer and then diverting it to her personal use, is charged against Nellie Heusted in a suit for divorce filed in the district court yesterday by A. L. Heusted.

Heusted alleges that his wife devised all manner of means of getting his money from him. Also he charges that she has used every effort to alienate from him the affections of his children and has succeeded so well that his children have left him and gone with the defendant out of the state.

By way of a sample, Heusted cites that when he went back east to visit his folks last summer he left his wife ample means to conduct the household, upon returning home was confronted with a grocery bill and other bills amounting to $95.

As a final straw, he charges, Mrs. Heusted took $700 cash and left the state.

Heusted asks for a divorce, custody of three minor children and a restraining order preventing his wife from trying to dispose of any interest she may claim in his property, consisting of several pieces of local real estate.

DEPUTIES APPOINTED.
Provo, Sept. 15.—County Horticultural Inspector Otto J. Poulsen recommended to the board of county commissioners today the appointment of Joseph Shool and Thomas Gleason of Pleasant Grove as deputies. The appointments were confirmed. Mr. Poulsen also recommended the appropriation of $300 to defray expenses of a fruit exhibit at the state fair, which was done.

A petition from Alpine citizens asking for improvements on the road between Alpine and American Fork was referred to Commissioner B. N. Christensen.

County Recorder P. E. Houtz recommended a new system of indexing the records of lands, which was approved.

WILL BUILD PIER.
Provo, Sept. 15.—At a meeting of citizens held today at the Commercial club it was decided to construct a pier in Utah lake for the purpose of facilitating shipping to Moesia. The work will take one month to complete and will cost $1500, the sum to be paid by voluntary contributions. Moesia will furnish the rock for the work. Mayor C. F. Becker, Preston G. Peterson and J. L. Lytel were appointed a committee to supervise the work.

RISBERG HAS BEEN DRAFTED

With the close of the Union association season has come a number of interesting developments. The directors have been notified that President E. C. Mulroney will not be a candidate for re-election to the presidency of the Union association. His successor will be chosen at a meeting to be held in Salt Lake within the next ten days.

At that time some decided changes may be made in the makeup of the league. Poor attendance in Montana even though the championship has stayed there since the beginning of the association, has caused general dissatisfaction.

President A. P. Bigelow of the Ogden Baseball association has given out the assurance that Ogden is to have a ball team next year that will be a good one. Players will be signed up earlier this year in order to insure a fine organization.

Charles Risberg, shortstop with Ogden during the last half of the season, has been drafted by the White Sox, the news coming to Ogden last night by Associated Press. The dispatch was not a surprise to his friends and those who know because such a move had been hinted at.

Rumor also has it that Jones, third baseman, is to take a trip upward within a short time. Ballinger, Rustenhaven, Jones, Moorehead and Woolms like the city and want to remain here during the winter. If they can secure positions. Their friends assure them that they need not leave Ogden at this season because of poor business chances.

DISTURBANCE IN CARMEN'S MEETING

Salt Lake, Sept. 15.—The eloquence of Allen H. Burt of Salt Lake, vice president of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America, averted a riot at the First Congregational church last night, where the streetcar men gathered to celebrate the twenty-first anniversary of the establishment of the association. The immediate cause of the disturbance was the announcement of John Kane of Holyoke, Mass., that no one could throw him out of the church. Burt interposed in time to save Kane and to prevent a riot. Then the meeting concluded in great disorder without the formality of adjournment.

The Pratt matter, which has been the big feature of the international convention of the street car men and which persistently stood up at embarrassing times for the international officers, intruded itself into the church meeting and changed the harmony gathered into a particularly interesting pyrotechnic display. The first mention of the Pratt controversy caused W. D. Mahon, international president, and other international officers and delegates to bolt the meeting. Kane returned later, filled with indignation and brought the meeting to a close with his challenge.

YOUTH BOUND OVER.
Provo, Sept. 15.—Reed Moore, a young man from Spring Lake, was given a preliminary hearing today before the justice of the peace on the charge of refusal to provide for his wife. He was bound over to the district court for trial. Bail was fixed at $500.

JAPS IN CUTTING AFFRAY.
Bingham, Sept. 15.—T. Akamagasu and R. Mayech, Japanese miners, became engaged in a quarrel this evening and at its conclusion Mayech was in the hands of his friends, having his wounds dressed, and Akamagasu in the hands of the police. A dagger was taken from the latter.

HARRIMAN MEN IN SALT LAKE CITY

Salt Lake, Sept. 16.—One of the most important railroad conferences, from the broad standpoint of western development, ever held in Salt Lake City, opened at the Hotel Utah yesterday, and will be concluded today.

Among the men who are present are: A. L. Mohler, president of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line; B. L. Winchell, director of traffic of the Union Pacific; J. D. Farrell, president of the Oregon-Washington Railway & Navigation company; H. C. Nutt, general manager of the Salt Lake Route; F. A. Wann, traffic manager of the Salt Lake Route; Gerrit Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line; J. A. Reeves, general freight agent of the Oregon Short Line; J. A. Munroe, vice president of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line; Oregon-Washington Railway & Navigation company; W. S. Ballinger, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific, and a large number of industrial agents, freight agents and passenger men from Denver, Salt Lake, Butte, Boise, Portland and other points, bringing the total up to about forty.

Gerrit Fort, passenger traffic manager of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line, said at the close of yesterday's session of the conference that it had been primarily called by B. L. Winchell, director of traffic of the Union Pacific, as a get acquainted affair, but that many important matters, regarding which he was not ready to discuss in detail, were being considered.

It is understood that the main object of the meeting, aside from giving an opportunity to the officials of the several roads to get together and exchange views that promise to be beneficial to all, is to agree upon some plan to more extensively advertise the wonderful country through which the roads run. In other words, it is the intention of the roads to pay still more attention to the development of the agricultural and manufacturing possibilities of the country. The colonization of the west of course, is intertwined with the other matters being discussed, and it is the object of the conference to devise the best means of increasing the population of the country and assisting the new-comers in every way possible. It also is the idea to agree upon additional advertising plans by which the people of the entire country may be made acquainted with the great possibilities that the west has to offer to the industrious farmer, fruit-raiser or stockgrower.

Joint traffic agreements and the handling of the great crowds that will flock to the San Francisco and San Diego expositions in 1915, it is understood, also are being discussed. Attention was called at yesterday's conference to the fact that approximately 90 per cent of the Carey act lands are in close proximity to the lines of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line roads, and the roads purpose to help themselves while assisting the public.

The conference will be concluded today, and at 9 o'clock tonight the officials will leave for Twin Falls and Buhl on a special train. They will reach the wonderful Twin Falls valley tomorrow morning, and will return tomorrow night, making the greater part of the homeward-bound trip in the day time, so as to obtain the best possible view of the country.

A majority of the officials arrived in the city Sunday night from a tour of Yellowstone park. Gerrit Fort, discussing the park trip, said yesterday:

"It appeared to me that the weather and everything else in the park had been made to order for us. The weather could not have been improved upon and—maybe you won't believe it, but it is true—an old fellow that had been taking a vacation for years began to spout as soon as we reached it, and continued for some time. The park trip was a revelation to those who had not made it before and we all enjoyed it to the utmost."

Mohler Tells Purpose.
President Mohler of the Union Pacific and Oregon Short Line, when asked concerning the conference, said that it was called for the purpose of discussing joint traffic problems, devising means to bring desirable citizens to the great west and to get together generally. President Mohler added that the lines under his supervision were in excellent shape and were constantly being improved, in order to give better freight and passenger service. Regarding business conditions, President Mohler said:

"As to the business outlook—there has been a recession in the commercial life in certain parts of the country, especially where the sections have been afflicted by short crops or through drought, but we are hopeful that when the congressional matters, such as the tariff and currency questions are finally disposed of we will be able to discern a little more activity. Inaction seems to have pervaded all lines, manufacturers, producers, purchasers and consumers."

According to the report of the government agricultural department, of September 1, the farm value in the loss of oats, corn, potatoes, and hay represents a gross value of $550,000,000, while the entire wheat crop raised in the United States, both spring and winter, represented at 80 cents a bushel, means $605,000,000. Therefore the influence in purchasing power having been destroyed nat-

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair.

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray, streaked, dry, wispy and scraggly, just an application of two Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the tonic; you can get from any drug store a 50 cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," ready to use. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color, thickness and lustre of your hair and remove dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy, lustrous and abundant. Agents: A. R. McIntyre.

It must have some effect in the national prosperity for the time being. It is possible that the increased price in the products raised, even in the states harmed by decreased crops may bring about a sufficient advance to bring to a minimum the loss on the crops of oats, corn, potatoes, etc. "There is a hesitating feeling among the large dealers and they seem to be waiting for the atmosphere to clear sufficiently so that they may know what course to take and safely pursue. Prosperity will undoubtedly be restored generally in the near future. The nation's resources are enormous and the intelligence and activity of its citizens unexcelled and unequalled in any other part of the world."

He laughed and said he was fooling, but a moment later the other boys said he had gone under. Owing to the heavy rocks it is impossible to drag the river. Men are working with poles and hooks, however. Mr. Faber came here about three years ago from Chicago on account of the boy's health and he had grown strong and robust.
